

Rec Cage League To Open Jan. 5; Practice Ends Tomorrow

Fenwick's Shoot For Second Title

By WIN BOWLES

With one more practice game scheduled, the dozen teams of the Torrance Recreation League get set for adult basketball play in the gyms of Torrance High School next Monday, Jan. 5.

A round robin of pre-season tilts has held the interest of athletes and fans alike in the old gym and, except for tomorrow, the shooting will now be in earnest.

City league champs, Fenwick's, don't play until next Wednesday, as "B" League teams open the long grind on Monday.

According to Elmer (Red) Moon, city athletic director, both leagues have displayed a brand of ball in practice that indicates a hotter, faster contest this year than was evident last season.

Moon said the "A" League appears to be "exceptionally fast, with tall and talented players looming up on nearly all the teams."

Evenly Matched
"The 'B' League," he added, "seems to be more evenly matched than ever before, and a wide open race is expected in this league."
